BARRY NO MATCH FOR LANGFORD

Boston Negro Knocks Out An. tagonist in Sixteenth Round.

Round,

Los Angeles, Cal., April 14.—In a fight which demonstrated anew the ability of Sam Langford, of Boston, and added to the reputation of Jim Barry, of Chicago, only for gameness and ability to stand punishment, the Boston "demon" sent his antagonist to the haat for the final count in the sixteenth round at the Vernon Arena today. It was a vicious go from start to finish, with the negro well in the lead after the first six rounds. From the tenth, in which Barry twice went down for the count of nine, until the sixteenth, when a straight left to the chin ended the count of nine, until the sixteenth, when a straight left to the chin ended the count of nine, until the sixteenth, when a straight left to the chin ended the count of nine, until the sixteenth, when a straight left to the chin ended the the count of nine, until the sixteenth, when a straight left to the sixteenth, when a straight left to the chin ended the tended almost at will, and a knockout appeared only a matter of time.

Barry surprised the ringside crowd with the strength he displayed, despite the terrine bombardment, and his rally in the fifteenth inspired his backers with the hope that he might outlast Langford. Barry's weight was given as 196, and that of Langford as 166. In the clinches, the white man was far the stronger of the two, and he was cautioned by the referee several times for rough tactics at close range.

The pugilists went at one another viciously at the sound of the gong for the first round. There was fast aghting at close range in the second, and both men were bleeding at the mouth at the close.

In a clinch near the end of the third round, Barry almost threw Langford through the ropes. From then until the eighth, the milling was a mixture of terriffic slugging railies and innighting, Barry throwing the negro around roughly in the clinches, and undergoing severe punishment whenever they fought at long range.

Several times during the eighth and succeeding rounds, the men were hooter for wrestling. Langford showed the utmost good nature. "Stop your tick-ling," he admonished during a clinch, "you can't win that way."

ling," he admonished during a clinch, "you can't win that way."

In the tenth the negro executed a coup in ring tactics. He suddenly threw the white man against the ropes, and catching him on the rebound, landed a terrific swing flush on the jaw. Barry dropped for the count of nine. Barry's left eye, cut open early in the fight, was almost closed by that time, and his cheeks were puffed. Blood flowed in a stream from his nose and mouth.

The last four rounds were marked by a succession of slugging matches. It was during one of these hard rushes in the sixteenth round, that Langford caught his almost exhausted opponent with a straight left to the chin, and ended the combat.

A Laugh Every Split-Second.

Cohan & Harris have fully atoned for "Forty-Five Minutes From Broadway"—that ministrel show of theirs is the one big scream of the season. As a ministrel show it is in a class of its own—Al. G. Fields and Lew Dock-stader are merely "also rans."

With good voices, clever stage management, a chorus drilled in Cohanesque style, and some of the funniest men on the stage, last night's two hours and a half of amusement passed in one side-racking how of delight.

passed in one side-racking howl of delight.

The first part of the program cohsisted of an unusually good but somewhat conventional minstrel show, relieved by the exquisitely funny work of John King, and the really fine singing of John P. Rogers, who displayed a voice and style not to be looked for in a company of minstrels, and closing with an exhibition of fancy Zouave drilling that I have never seen equaled, about fifty men dancing and quick-stepping about the stage for some twenty or thirty minutes, clashing sabres and performing the most intricate maneeuvres without a word of command and without a leader, save for the electric light tip on the end of the director's baton. But it was the second part of the program that made the show a brilliant success.

Imagine a black-face "skit" written by George Cohan, abounding in ridiculous lines and situntions, and played and sung by top-liners, and you will have it.

Major Price Tells Committee That Armory Should Be Enlarged.

BATTALION BADLY CRAMPED

Contends That It Would Be More Economical Than to Keep On Patching.

Major Lawrence T. Price, command ing the First Battallon, First Virginia Regiment of Infantry, appeared before the Subcommittee on Grounds and Buildings last night advocating, in view of the probable cost of replacing the armory roof and making the building safe for further ocupancy, that the committee consider plans for enlarging the drill hall and remodeling the entire structure along modern military lines, with proper provision for the future growth of the militia. The committee decided to invite sketches and estimates of cost both of repairing the present building and of enlarging and remodellagit in accordance with Major Price's suggestions, so that Council may hereafter pass on the matter with a knowledge of the cost of both proa knowledge of the cost of both pro positions.

In regard to the need for more space, Major Price stated that the present drill hall was not large enough for battation formations, and that there is not sufficient space for the storage of company property. He said that there was strong probability of the formation shortly of another battatron of three companies in Richmond, which would be attached to the First Regiment, and which would have to be accommodated.

To merely make it safe and leave it as it is, he argued, would entail on the city an expense for a new roof and strengthening of the walls and foundations. No provision would be made for athletic features customary in military equipment, nor for a proper drill hall in which inspections and battallon formations could take place. The Building Inspector agreed with him, he stated, that the foundations him, he stated, that the foundations would not stand an additional story to provide more floor space, so the only way to enlarge would be to buy or condemn the adjoining houses on the east, which are now for sale, and extend the building over these three lots.

This, he held, would give an ample drill hall, and give room for the fitting out of the rooms of the medical department and storage room for the companies, while a basement could furnish the gymnasium space desired. "The whole building needs to be renovated," he concluded. "If the city has to go to some expense to repair it and make it safe, why not provide for the necessities of the next ten years by remodeling and extending years by remodeling and extending years by remodeling and extending it?

To Have Sketches Prepared.
Inspector Beck agreed that the whole building should be gone over. To replace the roof on a steel frame he roughly estimated would cost $10,-000. Mr. Beck recommended that some architect or engineer be requested to prepare plans for making the proposed alterations, Sub-Chairman Don Leavy, of the committee, presented a letter from Arthur W. Hall, of the firm of Averill & Hall, architects for the Blues' Armory, offering, without cost, to submit sketches and preliminary estimates both for enlarging and for remodeling the building and his offer was accepted, the Building Inspector being instructed to secure such preliminary estimates and sketches from Mr. Hall or any other architect wishing to submit a plan without cost to the city.

There is a "bad nigger," whose every line is a marvel of absurd ferceity. he is so bad that he has to be polite to himself. There is a man named Bothwell Brown, who makes up and plays so perfectly the part of an exceedingly handsome woman that the audience is kept in some doubt as to his sex; there is John King, who is painfully laughable as a chambermaid, and there is that George Evans, the one and only "honey-Boy." In his monologue in the first half he got off some lines that were simply and purely—or impurely—vulgar, without excuse, and which he will doubtless omit to-day, but in Cohan's skit—the last half of the show—he was indescribably ridiculous. After seeing him and hearing him—for he can really sing when he tries—one can understand why he has been effered fabulous salaries in vaudeville. There may be a funnier man in the world, but it is easily the best minstrel show that I have ever seen. W. D. G.
